Sights of Scotland Tour

Tourists to Scotland often get no further than Edinburgh but this ten-day tour takes you into the real heart of Scotland. You will see the remote and spectacular beauty of the Highlands and Islands.

The tour starts with two days in Edinburgh with a chance to enjoy the capital's first-class restaurants, shops and theatres. An evening of Scottish music is provided in your hotel on the first night of your trip. After your stay in Edinburgh we head into the magnificent Highlands.

Your first night in the mountains will be spent in the valley of Glencoe, famous in Scottish history for the attempt to murder the entire MacDonald clan. From there we move to Fort William at the foot of Scotland's highest mountain, Ben Nevis.

After a visit to the Museum of the Highlands you travel by ferry to the Isle of Skye, a beautiful mountainous island which also played a famous role in Scottish history. You will spend two days on the island to go bird-watching or fishing. You will leave Skye by the new bridge which joins the island to the mainland and will travel up to Ullapool with its magnificent views over the western isles.

From there you will go to the north coast, eventually stopping at John O'Groats, the most northern point on the British mainland. You then travel south to the 'Capital of the Highlands', Inverness, where you will spend two days. You may like to take the opportunity while there to visit Loch Ness and try to spot the famous monster, Nessie, which is supposed to live in its waters.

Visiting several historic castles and museums on the way you will make your way back to Edinburgh for the final night of the tour.

Accommodation throughout the tour is in three or four-star hotels. Breakfast and evening meals are provided as are picnic lunches. Bird-watching and fishing excursions on Skye and the Loch Ness tour from Inverness are optional extras.
